GOD BLESS 'EM

(By Guy.)

We laugh at the clothes that they wear;

We tell them their health they are harming

By wearing such heels. We declare

Style tendencies simply alarming.

We scoff at their masses of hair;

But 'round them forever we're swarming

We have to confess that, in spite of their dress,

We find them most wonderfully charming.

And though we may argue and

preach

And call it all dress-aberration,

What lover has cooled to his peach

Because of her style emulation?

Ay, though to go slow we beseech,

And the style-maker's newest

sensation

We greet with a groan, we are proud

when our own

Go garbed in the latest creation.

Oh, brothers, we'd better give o'er,

For little our kicks will requite us.

The ladies their fashions adore,

Though the same to protest may incite us.

Let's bow to what still is in store,

No cure has been found for style-

itis;

We may have our say, but they'll

still have their way,—

They'll wear what they want to,

despite us.

Mr. Letcher Tipton is quite ill at his home on the Levee pike, suffering from a stroke of paralysis received several years ago.

KILLED ON R. R. TRACKS

As compared with the number of trains run, the volume of traffic handled and the increased mileage of railroads, the number of fatalities to passengers and employees during the past five years shows a decrease which is very gratifying to the carriers. This decrease, to a large degree, is attributable to the strenuous campaign for "Safety First" which the railroads have prosecuted. The most numerous class of railway casualties however, fatalities to trespassers, continues to assume figures which may well furnish food for thought. In the year 1914, the latest for which complete figures are available, 5,471 trespassers were killed in the United States and more than 6,000 were injured. Apparently the more trains that are run and the more risk that is incurred the more people there are who insist upon walking tracks and stealing rides on trains.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., has during the past year been especially energetic in its efforts to reduce the number of trespassers killed on its lines. In spite of sign boards, bulletins posted in stations and other means which it has taken to induce the public to protect itself, from figures which have just been compiled by that company it is found that during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1916, eighty-five persons, including men, women and children were killed while using the company's property as a highway or stealing rides on trains or engines. Of this number 22 were killed in the State of Virginia, 29 in West Virginia, 32 in Kentucky and 2 in Indiana. Despite the railway company's best efforts to prevent, there was killed nearly one-third as many persons as the total killed of United States soldiers and sailors in the war with Spain.

More than 53 per cent. of all railway fatalities has been caused by trespassing. During the past decade there have been passed many laws relating to the remaining 47 per cent. and these laws are rigidly enforced and strictly observed by the railroads. There are but few states where there are anti-trespass laws affecting railway property and it is but rarely that we hear of a conviction for such an offense.

Contrary to the opinion generally held a large majority of the persons killed or injured while trespassing are not tramps but are reputable persons, residing in or near the localities where the accidents occur. An especially pathetic feature is the large number of children who are killed or injured, frequently permanent disabled, by reason of what can only be called the gross negligence of parents or guardians. We are now in the midst of the vacation season and children should be cautioned particularly against walking on or about railway property, and especially against climbing on and off cars and engines, whether moving or stationary.

SUCCESS

How do you tackle your work each day?

Are you seared of the job you find?

Do you grapple the task that comes your way

With a confident, easy mind?

Do you stand right up to the work ahead

Or fearfully pause to view it?

Do you start to toil with a sense of dread

Or feel that you're going to do it?

You can do as much as you think you can,

But you'll never accomplish more;

If you're afraid of yourself, young man,

There's little for you in store.

But failure comes from the inside first,

It's there if we only knew it;

And you can win, though you face the worst,

If you feel that you're going to do it.

Success! It's found in the soul of you,

And not in the realm of luck!

The world will furnish the work to do,

But you must provide the pluck.

You can do whatever you think you can,

It's all in the way you view it;

It's all in the start that you make, young man,

You must feel that you're going to do it.

Victory for Cardui.

We are rejoiced at the great victory won by Z. C. Patten, Jr., and the Chattanooga Medicine Co., at Chicago.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of the makers of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and held the American Medical Journal guilty of libel for publishing that Cardui is a nostrum without merit.

In short, the United States Court has placed the seal of its approval upon the remedy Cardui after one of the most exhaustive trials in the history of the country.

All Chattanooga will rejoice, and the verdict will attract nation-wide attention. —Editorial in "Hamilton County Herald," Chattanooga, Tenn., June 23, 1916.
